Capital and Labor Applied to Land

We take the following exultant article from the Willamet Farmer

An Eastern farm journal records an instance where a gentleman who bought a poor piece of land, wet, stony and rough with stumps and bushes, was obliged to expend one hundred and eighty five dollars an acre in clearing it. In doing this the field was thoroughly drained, and the soil dug with spades to a depth of two feet, keeping the best soil on top The result was that the land has paid him for the last ten years a yearly investment on the capital expended of sixteen and two thirds per cent.
All will recollect the story of the man who, dying, left in his will the statement that there was buried upon the land bequeathed a large treasure The whole land was dug to a considerable depth in the hope of finding the buried wealth, until it finally dawned upon the heir that the reward consisted in the money that came by good cultivation Peter Henderson relates that a gardener lost $1,000 by withholding $60 worth of manure Numberless instances of like nature might be multiplied
There is no soil in the world that manure takes so kindly to as the rich and fertile prairies of the West—no soil that will pay better for deep working after it is once thoroughly drained, for thorough drainage and deep cultivation are very nearly perfect antidotes to the deluging rains and parching drouths to which the West is becoming with each succeeding year more and more subject This is in consequence of the destruction of the native grass and the annual cutting down of the timber, without adequate re seeding the grasses and replanting the timber Western farmers are, as a class fortunately exempt from the curse of stony lands and their easily worked and virgin soil tends to make them indifferent to many of the means used in older and less favored countries for enriching and increasing the fertility of the soil
Sooner or later, however, they must come to it The yearly average of crops is slowly but surely decreasing and sooner or later the system of taking everything from the land and returning little or nothing to it, added to the fact that the system of culture adopted by many is gradually altering the mechanical condition of the soil, is one of the strongest arguments that can be used in favor of adopting a system that shall increase the yield per acre, and at the same time improve the condition of the soil One of these means for the Western man is to increase the beef, pork and mutton productions in every locality where it is possible, and there are few where it may not be done It is being practically demonstrated every year, for instance, that we can compete successfully with any country in the manufacture of butter and cheese There is no cultivated country where meat producing animals may be so cheaply fattened, but we must breed them as well We believe in a diversity of farm products but the staple ones should be those that will bring the most money for the capital and labor employed.

CHICAGO, Feb 13—Both the Times and Tribune this morning condemn the action of Secretary Boutwell in the selection of a site for Government buildings in this city, as it has been made in advance of a report of the Committee appointed to condemn and appraise the former site They intimate that the decision is in the interest of ring speculations. The site selected is the second block south of the old Postoffice and is bounded by Adams and Jackson, Clark and Dearborn streets.
At a meeting of the City Council last night, the following communication was received from the Mayor and a committee appointed in accordance with the suggestion contained therein
"GENTLEMEN—I am advised that the Japanese Embassy which left Yedo on the 23d December last, is now at Salt Lake waiting the removal of the snow blockade, to proceed eastward They may be expected to be here within a few days, and will probably stop a short time, looking at the city and exchange greetings with its officers and citizens I, therefore, recommend that some preparation be made to show proprieties and attention to the Embassy during their stay. It is unquestionably the most important committee that has left the Empire of Japan The chief Embassador, Iwakura, holds a high official and social position in the Empire He is reported to be third in rank in his country, the Mikado or Emperor and one other personage only outranking him He is represented to be one of the ablest and keenest statesmen of Japan, and at the same time a convert to the principle of foreign toleration and intercourse Iwakura is accompanied by five assistant Embassadors of considerable rank, and all are said to be men of talent and ability Two of them are members of the Council of State, one is the Minister of Finance one of Public Works and one Foreign. With these are numerous secretaries, some of whom act as interpreters There are also six or more Commissioners of the various departments of the Japanese Government, one of them, from the Board of Religious Rights, and others are in the capacity of servants to investigate and collect information of all kinds in the countries they may visit. The American Minister to Japan accompanies the Embassy The special object of this mission, as publicly avowed, is to study and scrutinize the political, commercial, religious, educational and social institutions of America and Europe, for the friendship and enlightenment of the Oriental nations [Line broke]

Salmon Ascending the Columbia River to Spawn.

[Mrs Victor in the Overland Monthly]

When entering the river near its mouth, they may be caught by hook and bait. The Indians use small herring for bait, sinking it with a stone and trolling, by paddling silently and occasionally jerking the line. Near the mouth of the Columbia they can be taken with fly; but, as salmon do not feed, on their annual journey up the river to spawn, it is useless to offer them bait They can only be caught at a distance from the ocean by nets and seines, or by spearing The natives usually take them by using scoopnets, which they dip

REMOVAL NOTICE.

On Tuesday, Feb. 20th, THE OREGONIAN will be removed to the new office, on the south-east corner of Front and Stark streets.

President Grant and His Defamers.

Evidently the Herald feels that its gross and scurrilous attempts to defame the President of the United States will bring itself into contempt and require an apology. It declares that it is not the author of these dirty libels; it only vends or retails them at second hand. Republicans, it says, are the authors of these assertions that Grant "takes bribes," "tells lies," and "consorts with horse-jockeys and blacklegs." "If," says that paper, "these charges were of Democratic origin alone, our neighbor might have some pretext for intimating that they sprang from partisan zeal; but when we simply echo what Republicans say of the man whom they helped to elect, we certainly ought not to be held responsible for the charges." This is the Herald's apology for a course which it clearly feels begets contempt for itself.

These "charges" from so-called Republican sources spring almost wholly from two journals. One of them is George Wilkes' paper, an organ of horse-jockeys and cock-fighters. The esteemed Mr. Wilkes is very ready with his charges that Grant "takes bribes," "tells lies," etc. The other paper is the New York Sun, whose editor, Charles A. Dana, applied for the Collectorship of the port of New York, and didn't get it. Dana is the author of a biography of Grant, which is by far the most laudatory thing ever written of Grant's career. But when Dana didn't get the office he applied for he turned his paper against Grant, and from that day to this has been vilifying him incessantly. His coarse invective and dirty billingsgate have for about three years been paraded in Democratic papers as "Republican opinion of Grant." There are a number of Republican papers which oppose Grant for re-nomination, and severely criticise some of his official measures; but these are self-respecting journals, and never descend to such low depths as to print such grossly scurrilous "charges" as those which organs like the Herald delight to reproduce from the New York Sun.

But, says the Herald, "the editor of the OREGONIAN is an office-holder at the hands of the President; therefore, instead of publishing these facts, coming though they do from a Republican source, he is interested in denying their accuracy, and he does." We have already shown what ground there is for asserting that these "charges" are "facts," coming "from a Republican source." Since much has been said at various times about the editor of the OREGONIAN being an "office-holder," we propose now to notice that, too. We are not aware that it affords a ground of very grave accusation against a person that he holds an office, especially when he performs its duties in a manner not detrimental to the public service. The editor of this paper owes nothing whatever to President Grant, and is as independent in his station as the President is in his. His duty as an "office-holder" is to look after the revenues of the United States. This duty, so far, he has performed in a manner that has caused no complaint from any quarter. As an "office-holder" he is not serving President Grant, but the United States. He has no "interest," except a public one, in "denying" any allegation that may be made against the President; and he would have the same interest in branding and stigmatizing as they deserve such utterly false, vituperative and abusive charges as those "echoed" by the Herald, whether he were holding an official position or not. No man by becoming an office-holder loses or abjures his duties or privileges as a citizen.

It is the deliberate conviction of the country that President Grant has administered its Government, on the whole, safely and well. Not that he has made no mistakes and that no further improvement is needed; but that all things considered, his administration has been fairly successful and satisfactory. Sharing in this conviction, but owing no service to President Grant, the editor of this paper speaks favorably of his administration when it seems proper or necessary to do so, as any other Republican would. It is the deliberate sense of the country that its affairs are safer in his hands than they would be in the hands of any of the charlatans, mountebanks or calumniators who are pursuing him, whether their motives be private resentment, party spleen or simple hatred of the man who represents the national idea that triumphed over the doctrines of Democracy and disintegration that were at stake in the rebellion.

The "passive policy" obtains a notable endorsement in Illinois. The leading Democratic politicians of that State have recommended it. At their caucus in Springfield they were united in its support, and in favor of accepting a "candidate of liberal reforms," a phrase which simply means in their political dictionary an anti-Grant Republican,—for the Presidency. It is becoming morally certain that this will be the course of the party in most of the States and that there will be no formal nomination by the Democrats for President. Passivism is certainly gaining. In other words, the vital circulation is ceasing in the Democratic corpus, the limbs are growing cold, and the effects of the concern will soon be ready for an administrator.

How long has it been since our neighbor of Vancouver's Island were almost petrified with terror on hearing a rumor that a Fenian raid was contemplated? And now they are taking a bold stand against the United States, on the Washington Treaty, and talking big about war! Our neighbors are brave; no doubt of that. All Englishmen are. The man who shakes a red rag in the face of Johnny Bull, thinking that he won't fight, will very soon find that he has started after the wrong animal. But our friends across the line shouldn't get excited for nothing. It will be time enough for the Vancouver Taurus to paw and bellow when affairs begin to grow serious.

The Herald says it doesn't deem it worth while to inquire what the amount of the Swartwout defalcation was. It was too long ago, and it prefers to deal with fresher matters. Then why did it touch the Swartwout case at all? Why did it contradict our statement and interpose an erroneous statement of its own, which it now refuses to correct? Is this honest? The Herald doesn't want the truth remembered about Democratic practices when that party was in power.

To-day, February 14th, is the anniversary of the admission of Oregon into the Union, that event having taken place on the 14th February, 1859.

Some Facts.

One of the most hopeless of tasks is an attempt to convince a person who has made up his mind before hand not to be convinced. We therefore do not say a word on political economy to convince or affect those editors who advocate the sophistry of free trade chiefly because the party opposed to them support the policy of protection. If such people have harped upon one thing more than another, it has been that a protective tariff invariably increases the price of articles protected. In discussing the question it will be noticed they always appeal to a man's pocket and never to his reason, common sense or patriotism. The people are assured over and over again that they are taxed hundreds of millions of dollars annually for the benefit of, and to enrich purse-proud manufacturers and monopolists, and the most frantic appeals are put forth to the people to repudiate the awful doctrine of protection. That these frantic appeals fall without the least effect upon the people, seems to be no discouragement. They are repeated with wonderful regularity and with parrot-like perseverance and perspicacity.

There has been no more fruitful topic for the professional advocate of free trade than the price of iron and steel. All the calamities that have afflicted the country by land or by water, have been traced directly to the tariff on iron and steel. Latterly it has been traced more especially to the tariff on steel rails for railroads. Every railroad accident has been charged directly to the tariff on steel rails that has made the price so high that railroad companies could not afford to substitute them for the common iron rails that are constantly wearing out, breaking and causing terrible accidents. Now mark how the facts will change the aspect of the story. Our first steel rails came from England at the modest price of $200 per ton, and many millions of dollars worth were imported into this country at that price, and free traders never thought of complaining of the price. Nobody ever thought of such a thing as robbing the people to enrich the bloated iron manufacturers then. [We might say here, parenthetically, that did not come in until protection had reduced the price just one-half, and then it was opened loud and strong.] Up to 1862, we paid $200 a ton for steel rails, all manufactured in England. Then came the tariff of one cent per pound, but we heard nothing of the robbery of the people even then. It was not until American manufacturers, encouraged by the incidental protection afforded by the tariff, imposed only for revenue, commenced the manufacture, that that cry arose. The Bessemer patent was introduced and our manufacturers, paying royalty to the English patentee, soon offered the steel rails at a reduction of $25 per ton. Then the English manufacturers began to wince, and forthwith the clamor commenced against protection which was robbing the people.

As facilities increased and more capital was invested, the price was still further reduced, until now steel rails are furnished by the large quantity at $100 per ton. Here is a reduction of just 50 per cent, as the direct result of the tariff—the very thing that was established as a purely revenue tariff. There is not the least doubt that without that protection we should have been paying $200 per ton for steel rails instead of $100. The British manufacturers have had to follow down of course, and pay the tariff besides, and hence it is little wonder that they have made use of all the editorial help they could command in this country to fight the tariff.

There are now eight Bessemer steel rail mills in this country, and a ninth is nearly ready for operations in Chicago. To erect these works the great sum of a million and a half of dollars has been expended. All these establishments are the direct result of protection. And the reduction in price is but a small portion of the good effected. The millions upon millions paid to employes in these monstrous establishments annually, is really the great benefit that is most felt by our people. And the end is not yet. The Chicago Evening Mail, from which we derive most of these facts, confidently looks forward to the time when the price of steel rails will be reduced by American manufacturers to $75 per ton.

Beriah Brown who for several years was prominently connected with Democratic party management in this State, and was for a long time editor of the Herald; records in the Seattle Dispatch this opinion of the last Democratic State Convention in Oregon:

> The most corrupt party Convention which we ever witnessed was the last Democratic State Convention in Oregon, after which for the first time in our life, we deemed adherence to party, personal degradation.

The writer of this opinion has only to come to Oregon and look about him to ascertain that this "corrupt" management in the party has continued ever since. Its fruits are seen in the legislation that now has a place on the statute book.

This, from the Idaho Statesman, is gently suggestive to Portland: "We must confess that the people of Portland and vicinity are pushing their railroads and other facilities for communication in that part of the State with commendable vigilance, but how they can quietly sleep over the interruption of communication with all Eastern Oregon, Washington Territory and Idaho, for several weeks, and sometimes for several months, during the winter season, is more than we can account for."

The Herald, it is reported, has again changed hands. Its principal owner, we are told, is Mr. A. B. Hallock, who will control its columns. The police force here has now become an "interest" of sufficient magnitude to require an organ. A move should be made in the Legislature to require the city to levy a direct tax for its support.

What It Cost.

The city of New York had the gratification of toadying to royalty—of dancing with and feting with royalty. And afterwards came the counting of the cost. The New York Evening Post said:

> The expense of entertaining the Grand Duke, exclusive of the cost of the grand ball at the Academy of Music, has been as nearly as can now be estimated, about $36,000. The expenses of the royal party at the Clarendon Hotel are borne by the Russian government, and the outlay for furnishing the apartments of the Grand Duke and his suite was about $20,000. It is understood that all this beautiful and costly furniture will to-morrow morning be presented to the proprietors of the Clarendon by order of the Duke. It is not unlikely that during the next few days the public will be permitted to inspect these apartments, which are literally royal in all their appointments.

There was rumor to-day that after the departure of Alexis from this city, the diplomatic representatives of foreign countries, at this port, will address a communication to the Committee of Reception, in which they will speak their collective minds in regard to the "snubbing" they have persistently received since the arrival of the royal visitor.

Loss of Stock.

The following is from the Walla Walla Statesman of the 27th ult.:

> Considering the severity of the weather, the number of head of stock reported dead thus far is limited. From Umatilla county we hear of the loss of five hundred sheep in one instance, and nine hundred head in another, but no considerable fatality among cattle and horses. In this valley we hear of the loss of large numbers of sheep on the Touchet, and the loss of smaller lots in different parts of the county. Of horned stock the loss is comparatively limited, although we are told that if the bad weather continues for a few days longer, the loss will be great. A great many cattle are weak and tottering, and a continuance of the bad weather will find these dying by hundreds. In many localities we learn that there is great scarcity of water for cattle, and much of the suffering and ill condition is attributed to this cause. Stock-owners should invariably sink wells for the use of their stock, and arrange to have them watered regularly at least once in twenty-four hours. The water in the frozen streams chills the cattle, and in many instances brings on a stupor from which they never recover. This is an evil that can readily be remedied, and we doubt not that another season will find all the more prudent stock-owners provided with wells. Some of the larger cattle dealers inform us that they intend to erect shelter for their stock, it matters not what the cost, as with proper shelter they are satisfied that the animals will require one-half less feed. Without shelter or feeding racks, much of the hay that is thrown out is trampled in the ground or littered over, and is thus absolutely lost. The loss from this source alone in a single season will more than pay for the expense of putting up hay racks and erecting appropriate shelter. The Indian plan of letting stock shift for itself has had a fair trial in this country, and has not proved a very great success. In future the stock business will be carried on more in accordance with the practice that prevails in the Western States.

REPAIRING A WATCH.—The Eugene Journal has this:

> Our Jim's watch got of order the other day, and after he made several attempts to start it again by gently thumping it against a tree, he transferred it to our tender mercies, when after a futile effort on our part to get it "into line" by the aid of a rusty spike, we gave it up; then a "heathen" who "heap subed" worked on it for at least ten minutes with a case knife; 'twas no use; so Jim concluded to take it to a first-class workman in town, which he did, and upon inquiring as to what was the difficulty with the watch, after the man had telescoped it he smilingly replied that there wasn't much the matter with it, only the "fly wheel" was slightly strained, and that it wanted a "new sand box." Jim drew a sigh of relief, and remarked that he was really glad it wanted no more, as he had feared that it might have required a new "pinch bar." It was repaired, and at last accounts was making at least sixty miles an hour—'twas the sand box that did the business. "Time!"

The mail from the upper Columbia the other day (Monday) brought down a mass of letters and newspapers. Looking over the intelligence received from all parts of the upper country, we find that a much smaller loss of stock is reported than there was reason to expect. The winter in some localities has been somewhat severe, but nowhere disastrous, and there is now a prospect that there will be no considerable loss.

PERSONAL.

Mr. William M. Tercor of Jacksonville, late editor of the Sentinel, has been for a day or two in this city, on business.

Mr. Charles Newell, late of the Bulletin staff, and a gentleman of considerable newspaper experience, has taken a position as reporter on the Herald.

Capt. Maxwell, in charge of the Northern Pacific railroad party of surveyors, lately returned from east of the mountains, will leave for the East on the next steamer after the Idaho.

Mr. George A. Eden, sometime since appointed Collector of Customs for the District of Alaska, in place of William Kapus, resigned, is in the city, on business preparatory to leaving for his post of duty by the next steamer.

Mr. A. A. Lindsley, eldest son of Rev. Dr. Lindsley, returned Monday evening from a tour in Eastern Washington, with one of the N. P. R. R. surveying parties. He has kindly furnished us some notes of the trip—to be found in another place in this paper.

THE UMATILLA HOUSE at The Dalles is now completed and furnished in every respect unsurpassed. The office is the most cheerful and pleasant in the State, and the dining hall is unequaled. The rooms are all newly furnished. The house has twelve suites of rooms with stoves in them for families. The new house stands much higher than the old one. The ceilings are four feet higher, which adds greatly to the cheerfulness of the rooms. The table is kept in a style to correspond fully with the appointments.

REMARKABLE CURE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE GUADALOUPE MINE.

"THE WORK GOES BRAVELY ON."—CASE NO. 6031—SECOND SERIES.

GUADALOUPE MINE, NEAR SAN JOSE, Aug. 15, 1871.

DR. A. M. LORTEA & Co.—For a long time I have been afflicted with Rheumatism in my hands and feet, the pains most of the time being very severe. On the 5th of July I procured some of your ONE WEEK REMEDY, and after taking only three bottles, find that I am quite restored to health and strength. I have had the Rheumatism for about eleven (11) years, and think that the use of the "ONE" in curing a disease of so long standing in so short a time, is very remarkable.

As a tonic and appetizer I have never met with anything equal to the "ONE WEED REMEDY." By the time I was taking it I gained fifteen (15) pounds in weight. Trusting that this certificate may be useful in inducing others afflicted as I was to try the "ONE,"

I remain, very truly yours,

All the Year Round,

And in all parts of the world, the elements of disease are present in the air, the soil and the water, in a greater or less degree, and therefore the Great Vegetable Antidote to those invisible enemies of health, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is invaluable as a household medicine at all seasons and in every latitude. At no period of the year is a regulating and corrective medicine more needed than toward the close of winter, when the sun and rain are beginning to break up the winter blockade, and from the softening soil arises that terrible miasma, which weighs like an incubus upon the vital machinery, and depresses the animal spirits. It is then that the seeds of intermittent and remittent fevers, of rheumatism and rheumatic gout, of obstinate stomach complaints, of disorders of the liver and bowels, and a whole host of pulmonary and nervous complaints are sown.

The best, the surest way to prevent this disastrous seeding is to invigorate and refresh the system with a course of the Bitters. If this precaution be taken now, there will be no danger of the miasmatic germs taking root in the fluids and tissues of the body, and bringing forth terrible fruit in the spring. Now is the time for prevention. Remember that vigor is the only safeguard against the virus of disease, and that Hostetter's Bitter is the purest, the safest, the most powerful and perfect invigorant ever administered, either as protective medicine or a remedy. A change of season approaches which almost always proves more or less disastrous to persons of a weak, nervous organization. Brace up at once with the leading Tonic of the age. Purge from the blood all morbid matter, strengthen the nerves, and regulate and purify the secretions with the Vegetable Elixir, which combines the juices of the finest medicinal roots, leaves and barks, with the most wholesome of all diffusible stimulants.

CITY.

REMOVAL NOTICE.

On Tuesday, Feb. 20th, THE OREGONIAN will be removed to the new office, on the south-east corner of Front and Stark streets.

FEARLESS, OR A FOOL.—There are brave and there are fool horses, just as there are brave men and fools. Last evening the down freight train had some experience with a horse that clearly belonged to one of these classes. He was quietly walking along the track, when the locomotive came in sight, and he utterly refused to be in the least alarmed by the vigorous tooting which the engineer at once began. Down came the locomotive screaming like mad, but still the horse maintained his dignified nonchalance, and still he walked quietly along as if there were no danger to horse-flesh from such conduct as those. Finally, the locomotive overtook the horse, whistled down brakes and stopped, just in time to save the animal's hind legs from need of a horse surgeon—the whistle still tooting its angriest and most fearful notes, and the horse still walking quietly along. At last, out of patience, the engineer dispatched his stoke, on foot, to drive the equine from the track, which the latter did, at the same time swearing many a big and strange oath; and when the horse had walked with quiet dignity off the grade, the chop-fallen and defeated locomotive passed on.

LO, THE HEATHEN CHINEE, ALSO.—We just heard one which is not bad, though it does fit rather hard on that particular City Father who was abused, through the Herald some time ago, as the father of the crosswalk aprons—those aprons that were, metaphorically, the rock upon which so many split; during the late icy spell. The story goes that, a Heathen Chinee was hurrying along the street with his arms full of papers, packages, parcels and paraphernalia, when, as he stepped upon an apron, down he came with a thump and a bump, the parcels flying in every direction. The heathen recovering his perpendicularity and beginning to gather up his spilled arm-full from all points of the compass, broke out with angry energy: "D—n Hallee! allee time too muchee d—n foolee!"

THE GENUINE ORIGINAL OLDEST MAN.—We have found him, at last. As long ago as 1863, the Oregon Argus gave an account of him. His name is Stewart, and Thomas, a youth of 92 years (now 101), is his son. The latter took part in the battle of Perryville, and was complimented for his bravery and soldierly bearing. Thomas had then four sons, two grand-sons, and three sons-in-law in the army. The old gentleman, Thomas' father, was then a frisky young buck of only 122 (now 131) years, living in Connecticut. He thinks of coming out to Oregon and settling down. He says the sooner a man quits sowing his wild oats, the better. Should he come out here, he might do well and finally attain to a respectable old age.

PASSENGERS FOR OREGON.—The steamship Oriflamme sailed from San Francisco, yesterday, for this port. The following is her list of passengers: J McCraken, M S Hellman, E Kane, Wm Wadhams, S B Hendricks and family, Dr. J H Bill, Dr Dubois, A H Hidden, C M Rohr and family, M D Wilson, Jos Sloan, Miss M Cornell, Mrs Col Cristiaenzo and child, J R Crooks, Abner Allen, Mrs C Williams, E Townsend and wife, J H McCarthy and wife, E S Whitcomb, T Huntington, F D Baker, J Conser, John Harris, J B Booker, Mrs H J Hall, Mrs M Robbins, L N Hockgartel, M Manning, Mr Lavaner, Miss Leroy, M W Wallace, Miss J Fisk, Miss C Armstrong, Mrs Toure, M Langensig.

TO BE REMOVED.—Capt. Ankony, after getting the walls of his market building up, several feet, has commenced to pull them down again, on account of some defect in the architecture—precisely what, we have not learned. The walls will be razed to the foundations, and when started again, the building will stand some thirty feet farther south than now, but will be of the same dimensions still.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—St. Stephen's chapel, Madison street, Lenton service. Services will be held in the chapel every morning at twenty minutes before 9, except Saturday; and Wednesday and Saturday evenings at 5 o'clock. This being Ash Wednesday, divine service will be held at 10 o'clock, with a sermon by the Chaplain, Rev. John Rosenberg. Seats free.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.—A barber doing business on Front street between Salmon and Main, was arrested yesterday on the charge of committing a rape upon a little girl only ten years old. We do not care to speak further of the matter till a judicial examination is had, which will take place before Judge Denny to-day.

PASSENGERS FOR THE NORTH.—The following is the list of passengers per the California, for Puget Sound: Mrs. S. W. Percival and daughter, Mrs. Inkster, John Cunningham and wife, D Garigan, J G Parker, wife and daughter and 3 children and 13 others.

ST. HELENS.

A SPECIAL TERM OF COURT—THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT TO BE OVERHAULED.

ST. HELENS, Feb. 12, 1872.

To-day our attention was called to a notice posted on the front of the Court House in this place, as any other notice might be, but upon a close examination what was our astonishment to find that it was a call for a "special term of the County Court," "by order of the Judge," to be held on the 19th inst. Now this thing of special terms of the County Court is getting to be rather monotonous, and is considered by some as somewhat binding, especially by those who foot the bills in the way of taxes.

Now, don't! Give us a long term, a short term, a good term, a bad term, a high term, a low term, a black term, a white term—a great term and small; or no term at all—anything under heaven except a "special term."

This is the third "special term"—the tune of which we have been called upon to dance to—within the space of ten months. The first was about the first day of May last, for the stupendous, pre eminently philanthropic object of granting a license for a saloon in this place. The immaculate Democratic party, with its Democratic Court and officers, was incomplete without its Democratic saloon; hence the haste—couldn't wait a few days until the regular term. So it was in the case of the Clerk, of which you have had notice. And now we are called upon to listen to the same old song—again; but for why? Let us examine: On the notice we find this language: "for the purpose of examining the books and accounts of the Treasury Department." Now what do you make of it? Is it possible that Secretary Bontwell, with the vast accumulation of "books and accounts" pertaining to his office, General Grant, his Cabinet, and perhaps the Government of Uncle Sam, is to be summoned before this August body? Whew! golly! won't that be a day for St. Helens! Ho ye St. Helenors! sot your houses in order; and you poor devils who aint got any, brush up the stables and wood-sheds, and get your Sunday clothes ready! Come out, all ye good tax-payers; it only costs you about $100 for each term.

Don't forget. It is February 19th, A. D. 1872. Remember, boys; "look, see."

AMUSEMENTS.

ORO FINO THEATER.—The great popular drama of Rosedale was performed last night to a full house. The play in respect of everything that makes a drama thoroughly enjoyable to an audience, is positively the very best that has been presented. The plot, the incidents, the dialogue, the scenery, dress, everything, possess merit of a high order, and there is an excellent mixture of the best elements to be found in the drama. The characters were, in the representation of last evening, sustained better, from Mr. Waldrop clear down to the fourth robber, than in any piece we have yet seen the Company do. We had expected that, for immense pains and expense had been bestowed in order to bring it out in good style. We regret that the very late hour at which we are compelled to write this notice, precludes special mention of some of the principal personations. Everybody who loves a good play, good acting, piquant and brilliant dialogue, beautiful scenery, etc., should go to-night and see Rosedale for themselves. It will amply commend itself.

EXHIBITION.—We take pleasure in again calling attention to the great revolving tableau to be exhibited by Mr. Cardinell, at the Rink, Thursday evening. It is to be such an exhibition as was never before given in this city. The design of the tableau is of Mr. Cardnell's own invention, as is also the machinery by which it is to be moved. He has spent not only a great length of time, but a large sum of money in getting it up, and making it perfect. We can assure everybody that it will be richly worth the price charged for admission.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R. SURVEY.

BY A. A. LINDSLEY.

EXTRACTS FROM THE DIARY OF ONE OF THE PARTY—WINTER EXPERIENCES IN THE MOUNTAINS.

Dec. 11, 1871.—Broke camp and moved twenty miles, camping opposite the mouth of the Wenatchio. There is a trading post here which supplies miners on the Columbia, and deals with the Indians. Ingrahum, the trader, has for pets a mule deer, a mountain goat, two young bears and an unlimited number of Siwashes. The crust on the snow being too sharp for animals to travel in, we remained three days. Weather very cold and occasional snow squalls. One man entered a trap here, with his eyes open, and was relieved of his cash extensively.

Dec. 15—Breaking trail with much difficulty in nearly a foot of snow, we moved twelve miles to the mouth of the Ante-at. The basaltic formation disappears below the Wenatchie and stratified rocks appear. Above that stream, bare and sharp for the most part, they slope directly into the water on the left bank. On one side the hills are more rolling, do not run down sharp into the river, and are covered with scant vegetation. The whole aspect of the country is barren and disagreeable in the extreme, especially as soon at this season. It is hardly as bad, however, as the region before reaching the Columbia; and I believe that in general stratified rocks, however bare, are not as disagreeable to the eye as a basaltic formation.

Dec. 16.—Moved eight miles, traveling slowly and very laboriously, the snow growing deeper and the crust sharper. Camped opposite Wapato John's. Said Wapato resides in a log house and has adopted other customs of the Whites, as the following story will prove: John was taken sick and fearing a fatal result borrowed a "tamanimas man" of his friend Moses, a notable tyhee residing 75 miles down the river. John recovered, but nevertheless treated his doctor as is common in cases of failure—to avoid paying his doctor bills it is supposed. Placing a hair rope around the neck of the unfortunate son of Aesculapius and a fiery coyuse at the other end, the sportive John dragged his benefactor around the country till his vital forces were somewhat reduced, and then kindly dispatched him by removing the rope from the coyuse and attaching it at such an altitude as to raise his friend off his feet, to one of the few trees found on the river apparently designed to hang Indians from. Moses being naturally dissatisfied with this turn of affairs, proceeds to the Simcoe Reservation, at that time under the fostering care of the military, enters his complaint, and has a time set for a full discussion of the affair, both parties to be present. At the appointed time, Moses returns, but is astonished to be told that the matter is all settled, and that nothing remains for him but to return to his hut, draw his regular rations of dried salmon, and remain a peaceful Indian. The only explanation he received was from a "illium" who reported that he saw the enlightened Wapato John pay $200 into the hands of the agent. "Which the same" is evident of said John's acquaintance with the customs of civilization. John also maintains a trading post.

After waiting, in vain, three days for the snow squalls and severe cold to abate, we started for our initial point, ten miles distant, in canoes. We started our line opposite the mouth of Chelan River, which is three miles in length, and consequently did not catch sight of the lake. Notwithstanding the cold, deep snow and continual snow storms, we worked three days and then concluded, the snow being eighteen inches in depth and still coming, no feed for the animals and our own provisions running short, that we must take a hasty departure. Our canoe travel would have been quite interesting but for the cold—the river being swift and full of rapids; the canoes though are poor, being such as are denominated "shovel noses." The first snow melting a little, the river falling slightly at the same time, short icicles formed ending in globules just touching the water, then new snow covered all till every rock and stone on the river's brink had a pure, beautiful coronal of its own. Coming down the first night after dark the Indians asked on approaching a dangerous rapid, if we chose to walk. The first response was a negative, but having asked their opinion and receiving the answer, "clonas killipai," we followed their suggestion. Some of us made an exciting passage of the same rapids by daylight the next day.

Dec. 23.—Made the mouth of the Wenatchie, the men going in canoes. A very cold day. The buffalo moccasins procured of Wapato John were a source of great comfort through the remainder of the trip, and were better adapted for keeping the feet warm in dry snow than anything I ever tried previously.

Dec. 24—Moved down to our cache camp where we were greeted with no slight pleasure by the packer we had left there, and his canine companion. After having walked the first six miles I caught an unpacked bucking mule and rode him the remainder of the day, he being unable to throw me on account of the deep snow.

Dec. 25.—Made preparations to move next day. Celebrated the day by a whisky punch.

Dec. 26.—Moved twelve miles. After the animals were brought to camp my horse sloped with one of the mules—from my left ear looking for them. Returned to camp thawed out, mounted a mule and rode five miles down the river when I took the back track, and found the delinquent within a mile of camp. Returning we faced the wind. The moisture of his breath congealing on his body changed my mule from black to white, and my breath in the same manner whitened beard, hair, and even eyebrows. I felt the benefit of a beard. Thermometer 20° below zero. From this time on our camps were frequently poor, generally below highwater mark. Sometimes we could drive our tent pins into the frozen ground, between the rocks; sometimes not. We were compelled to camp with reference to driftwood, which is frequently scare. In the evening our messenger returned from Wallula. I received 11 letters. We had also a large invoice of papers.

Dec. 27.—Animals not found in time to move.

Dec. 28.—Long move. Froze right ear next morning.

Dec. 29.—Breakfasted at 4 o'clock. Started very early and made Moses' Village—25 miles. Moses is the best appearing Indian I have met in the country.

Dec. 30.—Moved 20 miles—bought wood from Siwashes.

Dec. 31.—Moved to White Bluffs, where a few houses still stand, and two or three stock-raisers live. Their stock was starving to death, and they had no hay.

Jan. 1, 1872.—Animals lost till afternoon. Had bacon and beans for dinner. We camped in a warehouse. Found there the best Indian we had seen of the river. He made no demands for tobacco, matches, food, or other Boston luxuries. (It is well enough to state here that the Indian was dead.)

Jan. 2.—Moved to Ringold Bar, abandoned one mule on the road.

Jan. 3.—Moved to mouth of Yakima.

Jan. 4.—Moved to mouth of Snake. Animals completely used up; several had been driven some time without packs. I walked half of the last sixty miles to bring my horse through. On account of the ice the ferry, seventeen miles above the mouth of the Snake, had stopped, and the animals have gone no further.

Jan. 5.—Our usual rations of beans and bacon having given out we breakfasted on the last of the bread and some dried apples. Sugar had given out some days previously, and we had taken our tea and coffee straight.

We were camped at a Siwash village, where about 200 had congregated to "mamook tamanimas" for the purpose of driving away the snow. We came down in canoes to the ice jam and walked the remaining four miles to Wallula. The hotel proprietors made no profit on our first meal.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

ORIGIN OF THE PLEASANT CUSTOM—WHO MAKE THE DESIGNS AND WRITE THE TENDER LINES.

To find the origin of the pleasant customs of St. Valentine's Day, we should need go further back into antiquity than we are prepared just now to go. It must suffice to say that the custom now, so general, probably had its origin in the practices of our ancestors who are represented in the anthropological theories, as never fighting their wars for anything but to procure enemies either to feed upon or to marry. Where the captures were mostly women, the captors not always agreeing as to the distribution of wives, had to resort to drawing lots; hence the custom was gradually introduced into society, of drawing lots in all cases of dispute; and society, finding in this arbitrament, not only a convenient expedient, but much amusement, it gradually grew to be an annual festival. The exact period when this took place, occurred too early for our recollection, and we do not choose to hazard a guess upon a matter so purely historical.

Be it as it may, the exact period of the year on which this ceremony of taking a wife, either by fighting for her, or drawing straws for her, has been certainly handed down to us. The Romans had their Feast of the Lupercalia in honor of Juno and Pan, in the month of February, and the goddess was called Februata or Februalis. At that period Roman youths and maidens exchanged their vows. The observance of the festival crept into Christian practices much as many another heathen custom and mystery did. The first to give the ceremonies a religious term was St. Valentine, who was a devout priest about the year 827, and who required all the other priests on the 14th of February to choose some tutelary saint for the year.

Up to the middle of the last century, valentines were of a much more tangible character than at present, and very gallantly married people celebrated the occasion. Samuel Pepys tells us how, in 1661, he gave Mrs. Pepys a half dozen pairs of gloves and a pair of silk stockings for her valentine, and how, in 1667, growing richer, on the return of the day, he presented her with a rare jewel set in gold, which he very methodically appraises together with Mrs. Popy's whole casket. Printed valentines are about 140 years old, though it is difficult to discover the exact period when gentle love words became changed into rather spiteful pasquinades. We suppose some swain was jilted; during the interval of a year the fair maiden changed her mind, and so he took his revenge by sending a bitter epigram:

At the present day, valentines are made for all tastes and purses. You can be malicious for a ten-cent piece, or amiable, complimentary, loving and tender for any sum from fifty cents to as many dollars, according to the degree of fervor or recklessness which you may be in. The popular taste, or as it is generally termed, rage, varies with the passing years. Awhile ago, it run to Feminism; this year the politicians and woman suffragists are the sufferers from the sharp humor of the caricaturists.

We look over at random a gross of pictures, and find fast young men and do. do. ladies. Heart-breakers, (male and female,) Quacks, Milliners, Aristocrats, Furriers, Penny-a-liners, Bar-tenders, Contractors, Thin Legs, Charmers, Blowers, Mischief makers, Termigants, Dentists, Junkmen, and Mr. Poke-your-nose in other people's business, &c., &c. If we are struck with the designs, we can't say as much for the color, which is put on rather crudely. Of course they all have their four or six lines of doggerel. Those lines are always mysteries to us. Who makes them? Are they made at all? Like Garami's little bits of stinging philosophy under his pictures, is the design first made, and do the verses come afterward of their own accord? We suppose this secret of the business never, never can be solved. One manufacturer avers that his poetry was made by a funny Irishman, who worked by the day and was found; another, that a retired undertaker composed them in his leisure moments. A third, with all that modesty of a true born genius, blushingly said he was much given to fishing, and when the fish wouldn't bite he worked up the verses. The sentimental kind are just as pretty as gold leaf, lace paper, looking glass, chromo-lithographic emblems, artificial flowers, ribbons and cotton, all artistically arranged can make them. They are given to the mouse trap style: you lift something up, and find under that, regularly imprisoned, a cupid, or a dove, or a pretty face.

As usual, there is already a great run upon the Postoffice, through which the major part of these missions are sent, and the clerks are in anything but an enviable frame of mind about their increased labors, though they manage to extract some small consolation from the whimsicality of the whole business. It is not considered absolutely necessary that valentines should be received on the 14th, and hence they will come popping into the office, like a scattering fire, for several days, especially in cases where there are bashful lovers to tell or broad caricatures to inflict. Who shall say how many stricken dames will find their mates to-day, or how many sensitive hearts be pierced with shafts of wicked malice, or how many buttons burst in merry laughter, or how many line devils forced to scamper out of keyholes or cracks and crannies in the wall, as the world laughs and roars at the humors of Valentine's Day?

LITTLE HOMES!

WE HAVE OBTAINED MANY TESTIMONIALS which appear in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN, for the purpose of answering once for all the many inquiries in relation to our "LITTLE HOMES." We desire to show to strangers, through men of known integrity in this community that they are not, as we claim for them—cheap at present prices, and the speculation in them lies in the future growth of Portland—which is merely a question of time—and in the fact that in less than one mile distant, City Blocks (200 feet square) are selling for from two to three thousand dollars, and in less than two-and-a-half miles (on a direct line) blocks are selling as high as $200,000 per block! Just think of it! $50 per acre for land, and 2½ miles distant, $200,000 per acre! New York city is over twenty miles in length and six miles wide, and many other cities in the United States are half that long, and quite as wide, and if Portland becomes a metropolis she will require this land for business purposes. Thirty years ago we could have purchased a section of land where the business portion of Chicago now stands for $10 per acre—$50 for a five acre tract. Thirty years ago we could have purchased the town site of Portland for a Cayuse pony—but we didn't have the pony. Twenty years ago a solitary individual, with neither money nor friends, found himself in Portland without a rod. He purchased a basket "on tick," and filled it with oranges, on the same terms, and went to peddling. Twenty long, eventful years have since elapsed. Still that sturdy old pioneer has stuck to Portland, and worked his way through thick and thin; and now where do you think he is?—in the poor house, and owes for the basket! Bet to our

The Stockmen's Petition.

The following effusion, written by a stock grower near the Dalles, appeared in the Mountaineer during the cold snap

O Stockmen's good! O thou
To whom we always look
And, humbly trusting, bow
In prayer and praise—CHINOOK!
On thee we more rely
Than all the hay and straw,
Or barley, oats and rye,
For thy propitious thaw

Wild grass o'er hills and dales
Supplies our flocks and herds,
Without our plows or flails
Blistering of our hands;
While we in summer days
With cards, cigars and wine,
Around the grog shop haze,
And whittle, chat and whine.

Five years we trusted thee
And thou wast faithful, too,
We did not feed or see
Our stock the winter through;
But Boreas hath now
Our pastures hid with snow,
So sheep and horse and cow
Must paw and blunt and low.

We now in deep distress,
(For fear of losing stock,
Rend'ring our purses less,)
Beg thee thy winds unlock;
Vouchsafe thy warmest breath
And sweep these snows away;
Else gone is all our wealth.
And fools are we, "they'll say."

Augment thy winds and rain
Upon poor us to send,
And we'll not pray again
Until next fall—Amen.

A Leap Year Article.

The Owyhee Avalanche publishes a leap year article. It is unique and must have created a sensation. We give some extracts:

In order that the privilege may be enjoyed, and that no worthy bachelor may escape, it is our purpose to drag the modest, blushing fellows, photograph them in all their beauty, expose their charms, and hold them up to the gaze of the fair ones—and if they are not Benedicts at the end of the year it shall not be our fault. We must, however, admonish our fair female friends to act upon the square; no flirting this year; your intentions must be honorable, your purpose marriage. We are not going to have Frank Ensign trifled with and his affections made the sport of wicked wiles. We shall not permit Judge Lyman and Dr. Beckett to become the victims of some artful girl, their sensibilities to be played upon and all their finer feelings harrowed up by the heartless coquetts. Hosea Eastman, Frank Hunt, Jim Graham and Bob Beggs shall not be decoyed from virtue's flowery path by the seductions of heartless fair ones. It shall be our endeavor to see that Jerry Philip, Joe Jones and D. T. Davies do not have their young and tender hearts lacerated by cold, unfeeling coquetry, nor "Rod," Cap. Drew, Ben Bornstein, and Rufus King have their affections blighted and their young lives darkened by the gloom of an unrequited love. Could we for a moment believe that we were exposing any of these gentlemen to the artful intrigues of scheming females, we should never cease to regret the fact of publishing their names.

The first that pops into our mind, is that worthy disciple of St. Crispin, Ed. Ayears. He is good game, possesses a fair amount of worldly pelf and has much modest worth and excellence. He does yes no pity and should have no peace of mind and body till he yields himself captive to the blind god. The general good of the community demands that Ed. marry at once.

H. Martin is old enough to marry and rich enough if War Eagle stock remains firm. There is only one objection, he is a lawyer. But then, he is a genial, social gentleman, and would make an instructive and interesting husband.

Hosea Eastman is another good catch. He is good looking, of faultless physique, and would make an excellent father to his own children. And then, dear ladies, consider what a splendid position you would occupy as mistress of the Idaho Hotel!

There is Jim Graham, who has long escaped the artful effort of maid and widow to entangle him in the meshes of matrimony. He is well off, but is rather extravagant, and visits Frisco too often. He needs the restraining hand of some careful, prudent female, who is not fond of dress or inclined to shopping.

Judge Lyman has hardly reached the age when it would be prudent for him to enter the marriage state, but as we believe in early marriages, and think they have a tendency to restrain the indulgencies of youth, we hope he may "strike an attitude" and get a wife before the year is over.

Frank Hunt is old enough to marry, and we have no doubt could be induced to slip his handsome head into the matrimonial trap if the right bait were set for him.

F. J. Ragan has youth, beauty, and is of patrician family, whose pedigree dates back to one of the great gods of Olympus. We are inclined to think he has had the "salt put upon his tail" already and will become a willing victim before the year expires.

R. S. Miles is in the prime of life and retains the fires of youth in a remarkable degree. He has had considerable experience as a father—a County Father we mean—and would make a good husband.

Those two amiable M. D.'s, Beckett and Colmesbe, should take wives of their own without delay. The boast of noble blood, being descended from the "himeless physician" whose sons served in the medical staff of the Greek army before the wall of Troy. Married medicine men are safer than celibates.

Geo. Vass is fond of domestic life and would make an excellent husband and father. The reason he didn't come to America with the Pilgrim Fathers, was because there was no room on board the good ship Mayflower for his paint pots, work bench and turning lathe. We hope the girls will show him no quarter this year.

If there is anybody in Silver City who ought to marry it is Jerry Philip and John Springer and D. T. Davies and Wm. Bashford. They have broken hearts enough with their handsome faces and killing ways, and should not be permitted to do any more damage to married women. Some strong-minded female should seal herself to each of these boys and keep them in nights—no night-keys for them.

Frank Ensign ought to be married more than he is. He has filled many positions in life, and creditably too. He is a lawyer by profession, quite good looking, dresses well, and we are confident if once broken to harness would work well in double team. He is an interesting, pleasing conversationalist and will be a millionaire when South Mountain pans out.

Ben Bernstein, E. Lobenstein, Capt. Geo. Drew and S. Lubrecht should not escape matrimony any longer, and deserve no compassion or mercy in the attack that ought to be made upon them. They are rich enough to support wives in fine style, would make splendid husbands for any time, but until fairly broken in will require watching at night time.

The fact is, Silver City is full of first-class nice young men, who, if they were properly married and kept in subjection, would make first-class husbands. Our mines and mills are also full of as fine young men as can be found anywhere. Perhaps we'll photograph some of them at some future day. In the meantime our advice is for the girls to go in and win. Remember this is leap year and that faint heart never won a husband. We intend before long to publish a list of all the marriageable females—girls, old maids and widows—in Owyhee county.

The immigration into New York during 1871 amounted to 223,962, persons, or 16,792 more than in 1870. Of these immigrants 113,112 were from Great Britain, 84,298 were Germans, including 2,000 Hollanders, and 19,595 were Scandinavians. There were 62,000 immigrants from Ireland, and 4,886 from Wales. The Mormon immigrants amounted to 1,500, of whom 673 were English, 322 Danish, and 264 Swedish. The vessels transporting these immigrants were 640 in number, and including 29 barks with 3,716 passengers, 89 ships with 10,848 passengers, and 522 steamers with 314,398 passengers.

Husband (old style question:) "What, dipping into the third volume to see if every one is married?" Wife (new style of answer:) "Oh, they were married in the first volume, I only wanted to see if it was really her husband who poisoned her."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY EVENING, Feb 13, 1872.

Gold in New York, 110 ¾.

Portland Legal Tender quotations, 90c buying and 91c selling.

The steamship California, for Victoria and Sound ports, cleared this afternoon. A copy of her manifest is given below.

The bark Melanthon will be towed to Cementville tomorrow, where she will take in a cargo of Lumber for San Diego.

The barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg will go to sea the latter part of this week. She took in a full cargo for Honolulu.

The steamship Orpheme left San Francisco this morning. She is due here Friday night.

The schooner Augustie (lately built at Tillamook for the trade between that place and this) arrived last night under tow of the Ben Holladay. A copy of her manifest is given below. She had all her deck load washed off when she was caught in the storm and driven to sea as soon as cargo is discharged she will commence receiving goods for Tillamook.

The first shipment of the year to east of the mountains will be taken forward to-morrow by the O. S. N. Co.'s steamer Emma Hayward. The amount shipped will not vary far from thirty tons

There was received through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express from the Dalles, by merchants and others in this city, $85,000. The amount brought down, independent of the above, by a gentleman from Lewiston was $25,000, making a total of $110,000. This amount of bullion and coin on the market will create more ease in the money market. When advices are received east of the Cascades, more particularly in Walla Walla, Umatilla, Grant and Baker counties, stating that communication between the Dalles and Portland is established remittances will be made forward for several months, thus giving remunerative employment to many and causing a greater demand for supplies, which, with proper inducements on the part of the O. S. N. Co., will all be purchased in this market. The Bell Rock Democrat in remarking upon the prospect says:

We are of the opinion that the gold yield of 1872, in Baker county, will be one-half to two-thirds more than it was last season Over in the Eagle Creek mining district the prospects are equally flattering. It is, we think, safe to say that the next season will be the most prosperous that Eastern Oregon has ever known, because the snow has fallen abundantly all over the country, and in addition to the natural channels of water, at least three or four large ditches will be in full operation. The "good time coming," so long expected, will soon be along.

The telegraphic advices are rather discouraging to those of our merchants who have large shipments en route by the overland railroad, and are greatly in want of them to keep up assortments. The public dispatches inform us that the blockade cannot be raised for several months, which we must confess is rather encouraging for high prices to rule in some lines of goods; and in Dry Goods, Clothing, etc., will cause great difficulty in keeping up assortments. Owing to the above-mentioned lines of goods being more badly broken than others, both here and in San Francisco, it is doubtful if complete assortments can be procured before the blockade is raised. On prices of Provisions and Dried Fruits the blockade will have a marked effect if it continues as long as stated in the dispatches. The active demand in California commences next month, when with as light stocks on hand as are reported, prices it is claimed by many will advance. Regarding the market East we are in ignorance, and likely to remain so until some arrangements are entered into by which mails can be carried from the point on the Union Pacific where the blockade commences to some point on this side the mountains in communication with San Francisco by rail. We were informed that a private dispatch was received giving an advance of 10 per cent. on Dry Goods, etc., the particulars were forwarded by mail. This last advance, it is thought was made in consequence of the recent Chicago fire.

Connection was made yesterday at the Cascades by the lower and upper boats. It is now so far advanced into the year that it is safe to predict that navigation on the Upper Columbia will not be interrupted again this year. From our exchanges at hand we learn that the stock of goods on hand east of the Cascades is running low requiring an immediate shipment on an extended scale In the Walla Walla and Umatilla sections the supply is shorter than at The Dalles, but owing to navigation of the Columbia as far as Umatilla being impossible for several weeks yet, the shipments to those two sections will hardly be made previous to steamboats resuming regular trips from Celilo to Umatilla and Walla Walla. From our exchanges we learn that the loss of stock was large but not so great as to be seriously felt. Sheep have suffered more than other kinds of stock. Stock that were in good condition feed through the cold weather, but that driven in last year and in poor condition suffered more severely than the stock that were acclimated. Our exchanges under date of January 13th state that if the severe weather for the winter is now ended the loss, while it is considerable, will not be greatly felt; but if another cold spell of weather should come the loss would be fearful, as the herd is now pretty well gone in many places and a large amount of stock is too much reduced to stand much more cold weather. It is safe to presume that since that date the loss has been light, for with the exception of one or two cold nights the weather has been quite moderate east of the Cascades

Produce Market.

WHEAT—Last evening's despatches quote market in San Francisco as nominal together with a reduction in our market on flour of 62c per bbl all round caused buyers to withdraw from the field. Shipments to California took on today for Victoria and Sound ports 241 sks

FLOUR—The market under reduction in price showed more activity, the demand being principally for local trade. Shipments to Victoria and Sound ports would have been, it is claimed, much larger had the telegraph been in working order to the above points; as it was the steamship California only took on 229 bbls. We quote extra in jobbing lots at 6 00@6 25; family brands, $6 25@6 50; country, $6; outside brands and superfine, $5 50@5 75 ₱ bbl.

FEED—The steamship California took on about 60,000 lbs to-day for Victoria and Sound ports. These shipments help to relieve our market of its surplus and give better tone to the market. We quote market firm for Bran in jobbing lots at $22 ₱ ton; Middlings, Chops, etc., $25@ 46 per ton.

DRIED APPLES—We are informed that buyers are demanding 6½@7c for loose and 7½@8c for packed. One of the firms on Front street shipped to Eugene City to fill an order, some packed. This is rather singular when our receipts are principally from on the line of the railroad.

EGGS—Quotation in this morning's issue was incorrect 30c but the types made us say 20c. The market today rules weak at 30c.

General Merchandise.

OLIVE OIL—According to reliable information from Italy, the Olive crop of Sicily, and most of the Southern portion of the Peninsula, will be a partial failure this year from worms, heat and drouth combined. From Greece and the Islands, and also from Spain and Portugal, the reports are unfavorable to the new crop, and the consequences are a sharp advance in prices, both of old and new Oils in those countries, and considerable speculation among holders. At 2@2 50 gold to obtain reliable information from France, but if the crop in that country should also fail, the effect on the market would be still more serious. As it is, however, the prospect is sufficiently discouraging to consumers of this article, and a new impetus will thus be given to the already extensive trade in spurious articles used as substitutes for Salad Oils.

EARTHENWARE—Advices from Potteries continue to report "turn-outs" among the work people, and an increase of wages, by manufacturers. Cost of production has also been advanced by the higher prices of coal, borax, and other articles, and an advance of 5 ₱ cent. has on those accounts, been established. Potters are very uneasy about the future, and will not be bound for long contracts.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS—Gray's plow, Peel patent, $60; Sulky, $80; Eureka, $60. Buckeye Grain Drill, 9 hoe, $130; 10-hoe, $125.
